Delicate Color Schemes For Saturday's Brides

Picturesque bridal retinues on Saturday included one bride who was married in the frock worn by her mother for her wedding, and in another ceremony the matron of honor wore her bridal gown when she attended her sister. Several brides defied superstition by having their bridesmaids wear green.

Cream Satin Frock for Woodend Bride

St. Mary's Church, Woodend, was the setting for the wedding on Saturday afternoon of Liberty, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brookes, Flinthill, Woodend, to Roderick Russell, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sinclair, Sydney, N.S.W.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Baker, assisted by Rev. C. R. Miles. Creamy arum lilies arranged on the altar of the church matched the creamy satin of the bride's gown, which was cut with fitting sleeves, and a square-necked bodice, and the floor-length skirt falling in full folds. A finger-length veil of tulle lengthened at the back to the edge of the skirt was held in place with a wreath of lily of the valley, and a posy of the same flowers was tied to her wrist.

The bride's sister, Mrs. John Colquhoun, was her only attendant, wearing the gown she was married in some months ago. It was fashioned of magnolia satin, and the same material was used for her toque of satin flowers.

At College Chapel

The wedding was celebrated by Rev. G. H. Gunson at the Scotch College Chapel of Gwenyth Foster, eldest daughter of Mr. G. A. Miller, St. Kilda-street, Middle Brighton, and the late Mrs. Miller, to Clifton Edward, only son of Mr. J. E. Austin, Chatfield-avenue, Canterbury.

The bride's gown was fashioned of magnolia slipper satin, with the neck, cuffs and hemline edged with lace, and the bustled skirt forming a long train. Her beautiful hand-embroidered veil was worn with a Mary Stuart head-dress. The four bridesmaids, Misses Joan Miller, Mena O'Fee, Decima Piper and Joan Marshall wore frocks in shades of blue taffetas, with Dolly Varden hats. Mr. R. Turnbull was best man.

Muffs Match Frocks

Muffs to match their frocks were carried by the two bridesmaids who attended Alice, only daughter of Mr.

The bride wore a graceful gown of cream slipper satin, her tulle veil held in place with cream roses, to match those in her bouquet. The bridesmaids, Misses Wilma Dalgleish and Edith Royle, wore frocks in two shades of wine.

Empire Gown Worn

Angelskin lace in the new and charming lotus lily shade made the Empire gown worn by Bais, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. McNicol, Colac, when she was married at the Toorak Presbyterian Church to Flying-Officer Archibald Duncan Munro Longden, only son of Mrs. W. Longden, Portland, and the late Mr. Longden, of Geelong. Her misty tulle veil in the same delicate shade was surmounted by a coronet of roses cut from the pattern of the lace of her frock.

The matron of honor, Mrs. F. Herman, and the bridesmaid, Miss M. Picken, wore ring velvet frocks of Medici red.

Chantilly Lace Gown

A bridal gown of stiffened Chantilly lace over taffetas was worn by Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grinlington, Chomley-street, Armadale, for her wedding to Richard David, younger son of Mr. W. G. Ferguson, Adam-street, Burnley, and the late Mrs. Ferguson, celebrated by Canon J. T. Baglin at St. Alban's Church.

A true-lover's knot was worked in each corner of the bride's tulle veil, which fell softly from a coronet of camellias and azallas. Miss Dorothy Charlesworth was the only bridesmaid, and her frock of blue taffetas was trimmed with small bows of cherry-red velvet.

Mist Blue for Bride

An ensemble of mist-blue angora was worn by Nance Tatham, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Henry, State Savings Bank, South Melbourne. When her marriage to Neil Victor, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gibson, Canterbury-road, Canterbury, was celebrated at Holy Trinity Church, East Melbourne, by Rev. T. W. Crossley.

White and Silver Gown

St. George's Church, Mont Albert, was chosen by Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. McConville, Elgar-road, Box Hill, for her wedding to Henry G., eldest son of Mrs. Sims and the late Mr. H. A. Sims.

The bride wore a gown of white cloque embroidered with silver, the full skirt forming a graceful train. Her embroidered lace veil was mounted on tulle, and worn with a halo of orange blossom. Miss Thelma Pratt, the only bridesmaid, wore a frock of periwinkle blue crinkle nylon, woven with a silver thread, and a matching Juliet cap.

Velvet Gowns Worn

Pearl-tinted velvet fashioned the Edwardian gown worn by Peggy d'Este, only child of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Atkins, Belmont-avenue, Kew, for her marriage to Alan Edgar, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Packer, Stanley-street, Caulfield. Her veil of old Brussels lace was caught with tinted lilies to match the flowers in her bouquet. A gown of eau-de-nil velvet, made on identical lines to the bridal gown, was worn by her attendant, Miss Joan Coster.

Canon Roscoe Wilson officiated at the ceremony at Holy Trinity Church, Kew.

Noojee Heroine Married

Heroine of the Noojee fires in January of last year, when she was acting as post mistress, and by refusing to leave her post on the telephone switchboard saved many lives, Mrs. Gladys Sanderson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Woolstencroft, Noojee, found romance when the town was rebuilt. She was married on Saturday to Private William Young McIntosh (A.I.F.), second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. McIntosh, Ivanhoe, at the Knox Presbyterian Church, Ivanhoe.

The bride, who met her future husband when he was working on the reconstruction of the town, wore a pale-blue angora frock, trimmed with milky white beads. Her accessories were black, and she pinned a spray of daphne and Christmas roses on her shoulder. Miss Frances McIntosh, the only bridesmaid, wore navy-blue accessories with her pale pink angora frock.

Camberwell Bride

Our Lady of Victories Church, Camberwell, was the setting for the wedding of Irene Mary, only daughter of Mrs. W. J. Thomas, Rowell-avenue, Camberwell, and the late Mr. Thomas, to Clifford W., second son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Brain, Strathewen, celebrated by Rev. Father T. O'Sullivan.

The bride wore a graceful gown of magnolia slipper satin, and orange blossom held her tulle veil in place. Her bridesmaids, Misses Molly Lynch and Enid Brain, wore frocks of crinkle chiffon in shades of green and mauve, with matching boleros, and carried pansies and Christmas roses.

Tinsel-Taffetas Gown

A lovely gown of off-white taffetas with an interwoven gold tinsel thread design was chosen by Anne Elizabeth, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Pinkney-Priestley, for her marriage at St. John's Church, Footscray, to Noel Easton, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Trimble, Mosman, Sydney. The precentor of St. Paul's Cathedral (Rev. O. Hole) performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely embroidered veil and carried white roses and camellias. Her attendants, Mrs. Patterson as matron of honor and Miss Nicky Patten as bridesmaid, wore gowns of deep-wine velvet with bustle backs and slight trains. Mr. V. J. Scott was best man.

East Malvern Marriage

The marriage was celebrated at St. John's Church, East Malvern, of Alice, eldest daughter of Mrs. M. Wright, Kambrook-road, Caulfield, and the late Mr. H. M. Wright and William Henry, only son of Mrs. M. Maro, Mulgrave-street, Elsternwick, and the late Mr. E. Maro.

The bride chose a gown of ivory slipper satin, and her tulle veil was caught with orange blossom. She carried white camellias. Mrs. H. McFarlane, as matron of honor, and Misses Betty Wright and Mabel Gowling, as bridesmaids, wore delphinium-blue satin frocks, and their short blue veils fell from red camellias in their hair. Mr. L. J. Harrison was best man.

flower girl, Pauline Anscombe, wore pink taffetas frocks with matching carnations in their hair. Mr. K. Fleer was best man.

Mother's Wedding Gown Worn

Wearing her mother's wedding gown of creamy satin and Brussels lace, Barbara Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Johnston, Brandon-street, Burwood, was married to Robert Mark, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. McIlroy, Balaclava-road, Caulfield, at Scotch College chapel, by Rev. E. Yarnold.

Pinned at the neckline of the bride's gown was a gold brooch given to her grandmother by her grandfather on their wedding day, and her veil was of filmy tulle. Miss E. Broadfoot was the only bridesmaid. Her frock was of silver-blue taffetas and her matching turban was caught with primroses.

At Northcote

Pastel pink lace fashioned the trained gown worn by Winifred, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvery, Harold-street, Thornbury, at her marriage to Arthur, younger son of Mr. J. Bailey, Emmaline-street, Croxton, and the late Mrs. Bailey, at the Church of the Epiphany, Northcote. Her tulle veil was caught to her hair with orange blossom.

Mrs. A. Sheppard, as matron of honor, and the Misses Gwen Holzer and Val Edwards as bridesmaids, were dressed alike in soft pink organza frocks embossed with tiny white lacquered flowers. Mr. L. Bailey was best man.

Boys' Guard of Honor

A guard of honor composed of members of the 1st Melbourne company of the Boys' Brigade and the 1st Melbourne team of Life Boys was formed at the Holy Advent Church, Kooyong-road, Malvern, for the marriage of Freda Annie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kelly, Barkly-avenue, Malvern, and Leslie Charles, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dalton, Union-street, Malvern. The bridegroom is the captain of this company of the Boys' Brigade, and the bride is leader of the 1st Melbourne team of Life Boys.

Cream-handed shirred crepe georgette fashioned the bridal gown which was worn with a magnolia tulle veil and a bouquet of camellias. The bridesmaid, Miss Rose Parker, and flower girl, Pauline Anscombe, wore pink taffetas frocks with matching William Geoffrey, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Downes, Waverley-street, Moonee Ponds. Rev. M. G. Graham officiated at the ceremony at the Methodist Church, Caulfield.

The bride's Empire styled gown of ivory embossed velvet was worn with a lovely Limerick lace veil. The bridesmaids were Misses Olive Downes and Theima Lucas.

Four Attendants

A matron of honor, Mrs. Nell Town, and three bridesmaids, Miss Phyllis Jaques, Mary Kearney and Nancy Nipper, attended Joyce Winifred, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Jaques, at her marriage to Frederick Malcolm, elder son of Mr. Allan McQueen, Owen-street, Kew, at the Littlejohn Memorial Chapel, Scotch College.

Their bouffant frocks of white marquisette, worn with silver lame jackets, made a perfect foil for the bride's gown of white slipper satin embroidered with rhinestones. A cap of marquisette and rhinestones held her white tulle veil.

Blue and Red for Bridesmaids

Delphinium-blue velvet gowns with cherry-red accessories were worn by the two bridesmaids who attended Gwenth Edith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dodds, Trevelyan-street, Elsternwick, at her marriage to Ronald Geoffrey, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Downes, Waverley-

Juliet Cap of Blossom

A Juliet cap, fashioned from blossom and worn with an off-white chiffon bouffant gown over taffetas, was chosen for the bridesmaid who attended Jean Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hay, Cochrane-street, Garden Vale, at her marriage at St. Stephen's, Garden Vale, with Gordon Bruce, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Walker, Myrtle-street, East St. Kilda.

The bride's classical gown was of ivory figured lame, and her tulle veil was caught to the head with azaleas, and the same flowers with hyacinths fashioned her bouquet. Miss Melba Walker was bridesmaid and Mr. G. Briddon best man.

Wodonga Ceremonies

WODONGA, Sunday.—The marriage of Florence Brisbane, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Walker, Wodonga, to Stanley Albert, only son of Mr. Graeber, of Albury, was celebrated at St. Matthew's Church, yesterday. The bride wore a white satin and lace frock, with a tulle veil mounted on a halo of orange blossom. Her one attendant was Miss Mary and her one attendant was Miss Mary Stephens, who was dressed in a pale pink georgette frock with blue velvet bows, and a short pink veil mounted on a cluster of gardenias.

At the Presbyterian Church, Wodonga, Lauris May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hewitt, Wodonga, was married to Dudley John, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Schubert, Baranduda. The bride wore a frock of lavender boucle, with black patent accessories and a black hat.

Bridesmaids in Pink

Attractive gowns of shell-pink chiffon velvet and matching ostrich feathers in their hair were worn by the two bridesmaids who attended Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dexter, Latrobe-street, Caulfield, at her wedding, at the Thomson Memorial Presbyterian Church, Ormond, with John Phillip, elder son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. Williams, Caulfield.

Silver-patterned lame fashioned the bridal gown, made with a train shirred into a fan. The bride carried white camellias and sweet peas, and the bridesmaids, Misses Peggy and Betty Dexter, carried pink and blue bouquets.

Hawthorn Bride

A gown of ivory slipper satin, cut on graceful lines, was worn by Jessie Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Blick, Hawthorn, at her marriage to Forbes Aitken, only son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Tough, Brunswick, celebrated at Scotch College chapel.

The bride's veil was worn with a spray of orange blossom, and she carried a bouquet of azaleas. Misses May Blick and Betty Tough, her bridesmaids, wore frocks of blue marquisette over rose shot taffetas, with swathed halos of matching material.

Albert Park Bride

St. Silas's Church, Albert Park, was the setting for the marriage of Dorothea Ruby (Bonnie), only daughter of Mrs. R. Mead, Anderson-street, Albert Park, and Arthur Laurence Kemp (R.A.A.F.), youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kemp, Brunswick-street, North Fitzroy.

Off-white French cloque fashioned the classical bridal gown which had a fitting waistline studded with pearls. Over this fell a lovely matching veil. As bridesmaid, Miss Jean Fry's gown had a misty blue silk skirt with a matching velvet bodice and her shirred velvet cap toned with her muff.
